GERMANTOWN SENSATION

Rev. W. B. Garriott, Pastor of M. E. Church May Be the Victim of a Foul Conspiracy

During the past few days Germantown is in the throes of a very dirty church scandal in which certain prominent men of Germantown charge the Rev. William P. Garriott, Pastor of the Germantown M. E. Church, with being intimate with a comely mulatto woman.

The preacher's friends declare he is the innocent victim of a foul conspiracy concocted by certain young men of Germantown who have it in for him because of his strictures on intemperance, etc.

It is claimed that the young men induced the negro woman to go into the preacher's back yard and then enticed the preacher there. The young men, it is alleged, then rushed upon Rev. Garriott and accused him of adultery.

There is a warm time in Germantown over it and Presiding Elder Mann, Rev. S. H. Pollitt and Rev. I. R. Hollan will investigate the matter this afternoon.

Rev. Garriott is married, has one child and is 30 years old.

Maysville Captured Both Games Yesterday From Richmond—Some Punk Ball

Yesterday Maysville added two more games to her total by winning Sunday's double-header from Richmond.

First game, score: 8 to 2.

Second game, 7 innings, score 2 to 1.

The opening game was so slow and uninteresting that at the end of the crowd of 1,000 was fagged out. There wasn't a speck of pep in the 9 innings.

The second game was quite lively. In the Sixth, Jones of the Richmonds, made a spectacular bare-handed catch in left center of Snyder's long hit, and the crowd yelled.

John Roper was the umpire and gave satisfaction, although he faced some very close points of decision.

The score:

Maysville . . . 2 0 2 2 1 0 1 0 x—8

Two base hits—Woodruff 2, Jones, Murray, Langham, Kunkle, Baird. Sacrifice hits—Carmony, Clever, Snyder, Williams. Stolen bases—Langham, Clever, Carmony, Williams.

Base on Balls—Off Beer 1, off Jones 1, off Langitt 1. Struck Out—By Beer 5, by Yetta 1, by Langitt 1. Hits—5 hits, 6 runs off Langitt in 4 innings, 1 hit, 1 run off Jones in 1 inning. Left on bases—Richmond 5, Maysville 5. Double Play—Clever to Williams to Carmony. Wild Pitch—Langitt. First Base on Errors—Maysville 3. Hit by Pitcher—By Yetta, Clever, Comigore. Time—2 hours. Equitable Trust Co. vs. Coughlin
The following is the syllabus of the Court of Appeals in affirming above case:

A will devising property to "my partner, T. A. Coughlin," and containing the provision, "I appoint my partner to settle my business, to pay all my lawful debts," sufficiently designates T. A. Coughlin as executor.

It is unnecessary to the appointment of an executor that the will use the word "executor," it being sufficient that it appears from the will that the testator intended to commit the management of his estate after his death to another.

One of Many Reasons

Why Vudor Porch Shades are superior to all others is the fact that those sitting on the porch can see out, but passersby cannot see in. In other words, you have complete privacy, and can use the porch or veranda the same as an inside room, with infinitely more comfort on hot days. The Vudor Shade is also far superior to the bamboo and cheaper in the end because it is so much more durable and will last many seasons longer.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

Sit steady in the boat. The breakers will soon subside.

Hearst got in his work against Bryan on the temporary chairmanship but lost every time afterwards. Look out for a Hearst bolt. —Portsmouth Blade.

According to the National Jewish periodical the Executive committee of the B'nai B'rith order of the world, at a meeting held recently in Berlin, Germany, had decided to award its annual gold medal this year to President Taft. The medal is awarded every year to the man or woman, regardless of creed, who has contributed most during the year to the welfare of the Jewish people. The B'nai B'rith News, the organization's official publication in the United States, in reporting the matter in its latest issue, says:

"After full discussion it was decided that President William Howard Taft of the United States of America, had on various occasions during the year, fearlessly justly and vigorously enunciated doctrines and maintained positions on questions in which the Jewish people have a vital interest, albeit, they are of not less significance to lovers of liberty and justice the world over; that the positions so taken by him as the head of a great nation gave new hope of better days coming for the persecuted of our people; that in recognition thereof the medal should be, and accordingly it was voted to President Taft."

It would be idle for the Courier-Journal to deny that it is disappointed by the result obtained at Baltimore and hypocrisy to affect anything other than regret and distrust. Perhaps here, as in other dilemmas, the least said is the soonest mended. Touching the nominee we have nothing to add to or subtract from what has already appeared in these columns. If the issue were purely personal the matter were easily disposed of. But there are considerations far beyond either like or dislike of individual candidates. In a contest between three tickets headed respectively by Taft, Roosevelt and the Devil, the Courier-Journal, being a daily newspaper and unable to take to the woods, would perforce be obliged to support his satanic Majesty.

The way the result has been reached puts in doubt an outlook which a week ago was straight ahead and as sure for Democrats as any future event could be.

The play of the Roosevelt progressists will now be to carry States enough to throw the election in the House. This is a menace and may prove a handicap. However, let all Democrats pray for the best and hope that, with the subsidence of passion, things may not be as fatal as they seem to those who would have shaped them otherwise. The Courier-Journal approves at least the platform and will support the ticket. —Courier Journal.

Mr. Bryan has grown fat in pocket and in person on his party's defeats. His income will not suffer should the party again meet disaster. The one thing that could adversely affect it would be a falling off in the matter of his own exploitation. That this has been Mr. Bryan's sole concern at the Baltimore convention, may or may not be true, but how else account for his refusal to permit a strong man to be named on a platform containing every principle for which he has contended?

To the innocent bystander, it would appear that Mr. Bryan, so far from seeking to aid the party, has but been seeking a pretext on which to desert and defeat it, on the one occasion since his entrance into it when all the chance of success were in its favor. —Louisville Times, Democratic.

The Republican party has been ever since its birth, and it so remains today, a party of principle. Its faiths builded on eternal truths, it has not veered with shifting political winds, but has steered true to its course, with the infallible compass of right and justice to all men.

It has not been for one thing today and against it tomorrow; it has not been for one leader today and against him the next; it has not sought to hide its past by wild promises for the future, for its past is its best guarantee for the present and the future.

It has not sought to array class against class, it has not sought to array race against race, it has not sought to array section against section, its cardinal creed has been "the greatest good for the greatest number." It has been a national party in all the term implies and considered the interest, and the welfare of the entire nation as paramount to that of any interest, class or section. It has been the party of the laborer and the capitalist, of the white and the black, of the North and South, of the farmer and the city dweller.

It saved the nation when it was threatened with disruption, it preserved the national honor when it was threatened with repudiation, it has maintained the sacred cost of liberty in foreign lands at tremendous cost in men and money, it has kept open the door of hope and has opened the gate of opportunity to the thrifty and the industrious.

These then, are the things that a man who is asked to abandon the Republican party must give up; these ideals and actions of a half century are what a man is asked to surrender in moment of frenzy. These then, constitute the substance that a Republican is asked to exchange for the shadow of political promise.

To win Democratic voters and support, the cardinal principles of Republicanism must be ignored, and thereby surrendered, for if they are ever brought to the front the irreconcilable differences between them upon free trade and protection, upon a sound currency or a fifty-cent dollar, are bound to split the movement asunder.

It was the immortal Lincoln who said: "No country can live half slave and half free." It is a great truth. We can paraphrase it: "No party can live half Republican and half Democrat." That, too, is a great truth.

Is any true Republican ready to surrender the ideals of a half century in pursuit of the will-o'-the-whisp of vague promise? Is any true Republican ready to surrender the principles of protective tariff and sound currency to risk a free-trade and fifty cent dollar era? Is any Republican ready to join a party that must be half Democrat and half Republican.

This, then, is the question that any Republican must ask himself and answer to himself?

Is he an optimist? "Is he an optimist?" "I should say he is. He's planning to raise his own assparagus this year."

Thos. Conway "Cabal" Against Washington

MIDDLE-aged, jolly, dashing soldier of fortune came to America in 1777 and offered his services to the patriot army. He brought a long with him no great military skill, but a most amazing capacity for making trouble. The soldier was Thomas Conway, a British subject, who had lived since early childhood in France. There he had joined the army and risen to a colonel. When he came here he was joyfully received. The Revolutionists lacked expert officers and they made him a brigadier-general.

The man's boasts and his dashing ways impressed the simpler statesmen. But George Washington read him at a glance, for a windy, vicious incontinent.

So when congress decided a little later to make Conway a major general the chief sternly opposed such a promotion and gave his reasons for doing so. From that moment Conway was Washington's sworn foe. One active mischief-maker can sometimes work more harm than a dozen wise men can undo. Conway at once joined Washington's opponents in congress and the army, and started a campaign for the chief's overthrow.

He and his associates formed what was known as the "Conway Cabal," and did all in their power to undermine Washington's influence. In a series of anonymous letters Conway ridiculed the chief as a coward and as too feeble of mind as a leader. He suggested Gen. Horatio Gates as commander-in-chief in Washington's place. Not only did Conway and his friends win Gates over to this scheme, but they induced several prominent congressmen to lend their influence to the movement.

It was the Revolution's dark hour. New York and Philadelphia were in the hands of the British. Washington and his army were starving and freezing at Valley Forge after a summer and autumn of repeated defeats. Men's hearts grew faint and their allegiance weakened. Conway's crafty words at such a moment fell on ready ears.

The cabal waxed strong. But for a mere accident it might readily have ended by depriving Washington of power and of placing the command of the patriot armies in the hands of Gen. Gates. And with fussy, inefficient, cowardly old Gates at the head of the American troops American liberty would have been doomed. Here, in brief, is the story of the accident that saved our country.

Gates' aid, Wilkinson, drank too much one night and babbled to a friend of the chief some of the contents of a letter from Conway to Gates in which Conway had spoken insultingly of Washington. The story was told to Washington, who called Conway to account. Conway rushed to Gates for aid, and Gates tried to get out of the difficulty by branding Wilkinson as a liar.

Wilkinson promptly challenged Gates to a duel. Gates wept on Wilkinson's shoulder and implored him to withdraw the challenge, speaking of himself as a feeble old man who loved Wilkinson like a father. In this way the frightened old general wriggled out of fighting.

Meantime, thanks to the first hint, Washington learned of all Conway's anonymous letters and other treacheries. The facts were made known to the people. The cabal was crushed under a storm of public disapproval.

But Conway was not to escape so easily. He was challenged to a duel by Washington's friend, Gen. Cadwalader, who proceeded to shoot him through the mouth.

Conway, believing himself dying, wrote one more letter. This time to Washington, asking forgiveness for his villainies and declaring the chief to be a "great and good man." Then he "conditionally" resigned his commission as an officer in the American service. Congress accepted the resignation, unconditionally, and Conway went back to France.

There he styled himself "Count de Conway," and managed to win an appointment as governor of one of France's Oriental provinces. He made such a mess of his diplomatic work in his province of the Orient that he almost wrecked the French interests there. He returned to France and became a general in the royal armies. During the French Revolution he was condemned to death. He was saved only by an appeal to Great Britain (against which he had fought in the American Revolution), but was compelled to flee from France for his life.

After that Conway disappeared from history. He is supposed to have died about 1800 in poverty and exile.

KENTUCKY

BY GEORGE FITCH

Kentucky is one of the warmest American states, not only climatically but politically. It is situated just South of the healthy repartee belt and is separated from Ohio, Indiana and Illinois by the Ohio river, which is often swum by minority delegates in Kentucky caucuses.

Kentucky is shaped like a suffragette's shoe, and is of medium size, about a No. 9 on the Elast. It was settled by Daniel Boone with the aid of a long rifle in 1769, and the Daniel Boone method of settlement is still piously maintained in most parts of the State in all important questions.

Kentucky is a wonderfully fertile region, and huge crops are raised whenever the inhabitants have time. The State is full of fast horses, beautiful women, fine whiskey and red hot men. It has only 2,300,000 inhabitants, but it could have had 5,000,000 if the early Kentuckian had been water-jicketed and kept below a shooting temperature. Men kill each other over politics in Tennessee and over cards in Texas, and as a recreation in Chicago, but in Kentucky crops, politics and family quarrels are all fatal. The result is that in some districts the Kentuckian who dies in bed with his boots off is sat upon by the coroner, who tries to find the reason.

Kentucky raises more tobacco than any other State, when the night rider doesn't ride. The night rider is a sort of Lum-a-bull weevil which gets in to the crops and ruins them with a hoe. It travels in crowds and is brave and fearless whenever its opponents are unarmed. The feud is another Kentucky disease which has put a sad cramp into the population. The feud flourishes in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky where the railroads and the public library do not intrude, and is a sort of a four generation family quarrel conducted with shot guns. When one feudist meets another feudist in a narrow alley and the second feudist refuses to sidetrack the first feudist shoots him. The son of the feudist of the first part shoots the feudist of the first part and the nephew of the feudist of the first part shoots the son and second cousin of the feudist of the second part and the brother-in-law and uncle by marriage of the feudist of the second part catch the nephew and grandson and sister and cousin by marriage of the feudist of the first part at church and fill them so full of lead that they have to be taken home on a truck. Taking the census in Breathitt county piecework is a porpoise job.

Kentucky has many fine old cities and beautiful plantations. It is noted for its sunshine, its moonshine, its blue grass and its red noses, its mint juleps and its whiskey. Making taxed whiskey is a business in Kentucky and making untaxed whiskey is a recreation.

There are many mountains in Kentucky, but only one volcano—Colonel Henry Watterson of The Louisville Courier-Journal.

Maysville people testify, Maysville people profit. The evidence is home evidence—the proof convincing. Maysville testimony is gratefully given. Maysville sufferers should heed it.

W. F. Lynch, 127 W. Third street, Maysville, Ky., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are a fine medicine. My kidneys were weak and the passages of the kidney secretions were scanty and painful. Having used Doan's Kidney Pills before, I again got a box and their use quickly restored my kidneys to a normal condition. I continued using Doan's Kidney Pills and they completely relieved me."

CHAMP CLARK

Says He Lost Nomination Solely "Through Vile and Malicious Slanders of William J. Bryan"

WASHINGTON—On his return to Washington from Baltimore today, Speaker Clark issued the following statement:

"No set of men ever made a lie or braver fight for any man in this world than my friends all over the country made for me. They have my heartfelt thanks. We never had money enough even to pay for an adequate supply of postage stamps and literature. I was tied down here by my duties of the speakership. I could, therefore, aid my friends very little. They made the fight, gave me 200,000 majority in the states where Governor Wilson and I competed in the primaries and caused me to lead on thirty ballots in the convention, in line of which I had a clear majority. Nevertheless, the nomination was bestowed upon Governor Wilson."

"I never scratched a Democratic ticket or booted a Democratic nominee in my life. I shall not change the Democratic habit now. I am too seasoned a soldier not to accept cheerfully the fortunes of war."

"I will support Governor Wilson with whatever power I possess, and hope he will be elected."

"I lost the nomination solely through the vile and malicious slanders of Col. William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska. True these slanders were of innuendo and insinuation, but they were no less deadly for that reason."

WHO WHO—and WHY

HEADS "BIG SISTERS" SOCIETY

The organization in New York of Big Sisters, formed to work on the lines of the now eight-year-old society of Big Brothers, is the result of the individual effort of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt in the children's court.

The society has already more than a hundred members, has an office in the suite occupied by the Big Brothers, at 200 Fifth avenue, with a secretary and assistant secretary to attend to the clerical work, and to be always at the court whenever it is in session and look after little girls who need assistance when the members of the society are not able to be present. Mrs. Vanderbilt, whose practical, charitable work is illustrated in the apartment homes, with the maximum amount of sun and air, which she had put up for people with incipient cases of tuberculosis, began her visits to the children's court about two years ago. There she found representatives of Jewish and Catholic organizations doing excellent work among their people, but there was no one from the Protestant denominations to make a special effort to look after the children of their churches.

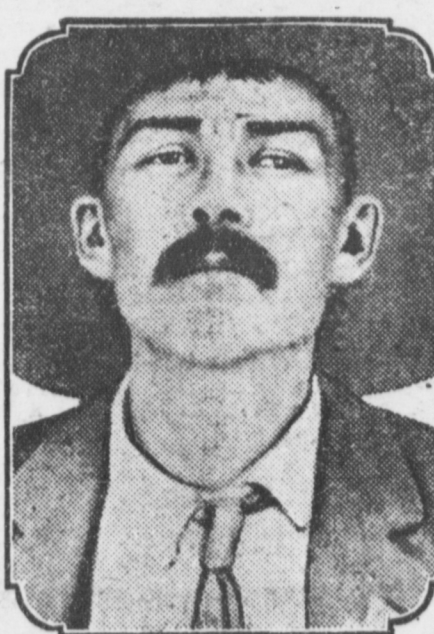

There was so much work to be done that Mrs. Vanderbilt visited the courts at least once and sometimes two or three times a week, interesting herself in cases when there seemed need of assistance. Finding a little rag tag baby at the front of the stairs she would pick it up and carry it until she found the person who was supposed to be in charge of it. She visited the children she found in need in their homes. They did not know her by name, but only knew that some one kind and motherly was interested in them. Then, the personal equation being such an important part of the work she interested her two sisters, Mrs. F. C. Havemeyer and Mrs. Stephen H. Olin, whose names are among the incorporators, and some of her friends also came in.

DUKE OF ORLEANS IS HARD UP

In the diplomatic and social world in London it is believed that the duke of Orleans, who aspires to be king of France and keeps on wire pulling to that end, must be a bit short of ready cash. Otherwise no one believes that he would have sold his famous estate of Wood Norton, "the home of exiles," as he has just done, the buyer being an English judge, Sir Charles Swinfen Eady, writes a London correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

How much his worship paid his highness for Wood Norton it has proved impossible to learn, but it must have been a tidy sum, for the house itself is furnished with a magnificent in keeping with the royal state which the pretender to the throne of France has kept up there, and the property, which is located near Evesham, in the valley of the Avon, extends over 2,500 acres and takes in several parishes. The mansion, which is a handsome one, with many gables, will need a lot of alteration inside to make it a suitable home for an English magistrate, everything, from the door handles and the electric fittings to the oak panelings, being emblazoned with the fleur-de-lis of the royal house of France. However, its new owner can stand the racket, for, besides getting a fat salary as one of the judges of the court of chancery—which so many Americans believe to be keeping them out of big fortunes—he is said to have earned, as a barrister, one of the largest incomes ever made by a lawyer in England.

DECLARES OROZCO HAS FAILED

Gen. Braulio Hernandez, formerly a leader in both of the Mexican revolutions, is now in the United States, practically an exile from his own country.

At present General Hernandez is at outs both with the government under Madero, which has had him indicted on a charge of conspiracy, and with Orozco, the revolutionary leader.

"The revolution is not a separate one from that which made Madero president," he said. "But Madero betrayed the trust of the people after becoming president by allying himself with the wealthy class and the corporations—what you call the trusts. At my call the people arose to demand what they expected from the revolution that ended in the overthrow of Diaz."

"Orozco was not with us then. Later he joined us. Then the trusts, seeing they would lose, decided to divide, half of them going to the aid of Orozco, who was very popular then. I pleaded with him not to accept their services, but he would not listen. Now the people are fighting, but not with the same spirit."

Hernandez asserts the principles for which the present revolutionists have been fighting are revision of the codes and complete reformation of the whole judicial system, practical and general education, to include the children of the Indian population, and the democratizing of the rural lands.

SCHOOL FOR MOTHERS OPENED

And now we have a School of Mothercraft. It is a New York institution and is probably the only one of its kind in the world; certainly it is the only one in the United States. Its director is Mary L. Read, who is also its originator, and among those interested in it is a list of women which might well be mistaken for an extract from the Social Register—all of them enthusiastic, helpful and convinced that in the new institution something has arisen which will very greatly tend to help the nation.

Regarding the objects of the school Miss Read said: "The objects of the school are to provide a competent, a very practical and scientifically true course of instruction in those things which will enable the mother to make of her children the healthiest, best educated and most honorable citizens. The school goes further than that, indeed, for it aims also to help her to produce, in the first place, the right kind of a child on which to work. The practice of biology in the family includes eugenics as well as the care of the infant and the growing child. There is as much for the unmarried girl as for the married woman to learn, for the right study of eugenics will show her how and whom to marry, and how and whom not to marry."

of This Noted
School

Miss Lida D. Woods returned Saturday from Danville, Ky., where she has been the guest of President and Mrs. Acheson of Caldwell College.

The College Board has appointed Miss Woods assistant to President Acheson for the coming year, and she has entered upon her duties.

The position is one calling for much executive ability and trained school work, and everyone who knows Miss Woods realizes that she is thoroughly fitted for the responsible position given her, and all her Maysville friends congratulate her and also the management of this noted female college, which stands among the first in the land, is richly endowed and is under the management of the Presbyterian Church.

Miss Lida is delighted with Danville and its cultured people and we are sure she will add to the success of the College and to the high ideals for which it stands.

Caldwell now has over 200 young lady pupils and is one of the aristocratic schools of the South.

CURED BY A NATIVE HERB

On board a vessel bound for India recently a man was bitten by a poisonous reptile; both the ship doctor and a famous surgeon failed to control the poison, fast spreading through his system.

In a day the vessel reached port. An Indian medicine man was sent for, who produced a native herb which quickly allayed the poison and the man's life was saved.

Roots and herbs are nature's cure for disease. That great remedy for female ills, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, had its origin in the roots and herbs of the field, some of which are now consumed yearly in making it.

VICTIM OF WRECK

Conductor D. R. Thompson is confined to his home in Forest avenue as the result of injuries received in a wreck on the L. & N. road, six miles from Richmond, Friday night of last week.

The accident occurred to passenger train No. 9, which left Maysville at 1:15 p. m. Friday. At 9 o'clock the same night, when near Richmond, the rear coach, containing twenty passengers, jumped the track and rolled down an embankment, turning completely over.

Everyone in the coach was injured, the worst sufferer being Mr. Lavin Kirk of Paintsville, who had his skull fractured and is probably fatally hurt.

Conductor Thompson received painful bruises and was otherwise badly injured, but he was able to return home Saturday and is now slowly recovering. No others were seriously injured.

The cause of the accident is not known.

MISS LAURA CLAY

Makes Brilliant Address to the Woman's Club on "School Suffrage For Women"

At Saturday afternoon's meeting of the Woman's Club, Miss Laura Clay, Vice President of the Federation of Women's Clubs, and one of the world's famous advocates of women's suffrage, delivered an eloquent address on "School Suffrage For Women."

It was unfortunate that there were less than a dozen Maysville men in attendance, as Miss Clay's talk was of such a character that every man in Maysville could have profited from her remarks. There were several scores of ladies present, among them being Miss Alice Lloyd, another brilliant Mason county woman, and her sister, Mrs. C. O. Pickett of Omaha, Neb.

Miss Clay is a daughter of that noted Kentuckian, Hon. Cassius M. Clay, who in his time was a man of world-force and a fearless advocate of liberty.

Miss Clay spoke for an hour. She is a gifted and eloquent talker, and while the caption of her address was "School Suffrage For Women," she discussed principally the home making and the home influence of women, dwelling especially upon the importance of the mother's moral control of her sons and daughters.

She scored the double standard of morals as practiced by the modern sinner.

She declared again and again, that women lacked courage and self respect, and that when a woman was fully endowed with these traits her place in the home, in society and in the world, was broadened for usefulness and virtue and her own lot and pathway through life made easier, nobler and surer.

She dwelt at length upon the arch crime against young womanhood, the white slave traffic, the enormity of which is now appalling society. She called upon the mothers not only to rear their daughters with guarded care, but also to teach their boys the physical and moral blessings of virtue and righteousness.

Miss Clay is a suffragist and not a "suffragette" and her campaign stands first, for the home making of elevated womanhood.

At the close of her remarks, she was given an ovation and hearty congratulations by all those present.

Miss Clay was introduced by Miss Jessie O. Yancey who spoke for the Woman's Club.

On motion of Miss Yancey the Woman's Club unanimously gave a vote of thanks to President Thomas M. Russell of the Maysville Amusement Co., which was responsible for bringing the recent Rodpath Chautauqua to Maysville and which we are to have as an annual educational feature hereafter. The Woman's Club endorsed the Chautauqua movement and is to work with the Maysville High School Lyceum management who has guaranteed the financial end of next year's Chautauqua, in making the affair a success, and the work of selling the tickets is now under way.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN

Believed Asleep on Train Found to Be Dead—Well Known Here

Mr. Joseph John McCarty, 68 years old, of St. Paul, Minn., and a well known business man and former public official of St. Paul, dropped dead in his seat on Louisville and Nashville Railroad train, No. 39, between Muir Station, Fayette county, and the Lexington Union Station, Friday evening between 7 and 7:35 o'clock. He was found dead in his seat by Conductor C. E. Peterson when the train reached the Lexington Union Station.

According to Conductor Peterson of the train, Mr. McCarty had given no indication of being ill, and was apparently in no pain when the train passed Muir Station. When the train arrived in the Lexington Union Station Conductor Peterson saw that Mr. McCarty's head was resting on his bosom and, believing him asleep, shook him gently to awaken him and found that he had expired. The verdict of the Coroner's Jury was that death was due to paralysis of the heart.

During the Civil War he was a member of the Tenth Kentucky Cavalry, and some years ago came all the way from St. Paul, Minn., to attend a regimental reunion held in this city. He has many friends in Maysville and vicinity who will be grieved to learn of his death. He leaves a widow, several children, and an only brother, R. J. McCarty of St. Paul.

Do you see how the square cross-roads at top of head and foot beautify this bed? Imagine this design with round tubing in those positions. Would not the result be "ordinary" and monotonous?

It is just such details of clever and artistic designing that have made our steel beds so popular. And the very larger corner posts with brass caps all combine to make this an unusually artistic bed.

Moreover this bed is as good as it looks. Because it is made of drawn steel tubing, very light in weight—extremely strong.

A child can move this bed with the greatest ease. Come in and see this bed. Then you will realize how good it is.

THE OSKAMP JEWELRY COMPANY, CINCINNATI, O., February 28th, 1912. To Whom This May Concern:

This is to certify that John L. Walsh was employed by me, for the Oskamp Jewelry Co., as watchmaker for a considerable period and during that time his work was entirely satisfactory and he was especially adept in repairing fine watches and chronographs, and it gives me great pleasure to recommend him as a first-class watchmaker.

JOSEPH W. BURNS, Head watchmaker for the Oskamp Jewelry Company.
